

Terms of Business

1 COMMENCEMENT

- 1.1 The term "Agreement" hereunder shall mean collectively these Terms of Business, the Schedules, and any accompanying documents which incorporate this Agreement by reference. This Agreement supersedes any previous agreement between you and Kyte Broking Limited (hereinafter "KBL") on the same subject matter. This Agreement shall apply to all transactions contemplated under this Agreement.
- 1.2 This Agreement, as amended from time to time, defines the basis upon which KBL will provide you with certain services and states the terms and conditions under which you enter into this relationship with KBL. If KBL make any material change to this Agreement, KBL will give at least three (3) business days' written notice to you. Such amendment will become effective on the date specified in the notice. Unless otherwise agreed, an amendment will not affect any outstanding order or transaction or any legal rights or obligations which may already have arisen. By using our services you acknowledge, represent and confirm that you are authorised to bind your company to this Agreement.
- 1.3 This Agreement constitutes the entire agreement between KBL and yourselves and supersedes any prior agreement relating to the terms set out in this Agreement or any prior declaration or statement KBL may have made in respect of these. Where you have been advised that Societe Generale, London Branch (SG) shall provide settlement and associated services to you in the context of Brokerage Services, you hereby i) consent to KBL passing information to SG to the extent necessary for the provision of such settlement and associated services and to the extent permitted by applicable law ii) consent to KBL instructing SG to open accounts for you at SG and iii) confirm that you will transfer relevant KBL commission to SG which will onward pass such commission to KBL.
- 1.4 By entering into a transaction with KBL you acknowledge that you have read, understood, accept and agree to be bound by the terms and conditions of this Agreement, any accompanying documents which incorporate this Agreement by reference, and all applicable laws and regulations. By entering into a transaction on KBL's OTF you acknowledge agreement to membership, and that that you have read, understood, accept and agree to the Supplement to the Terms of Business: OTF Rules.
- 1.5 You hereby represent that you understand and acknowledge that failure to comply with this Agreement may mean that KBL suffers irreparable injury for which monetary damages alone may not be an adequate remedy. You hereby agree that in the event of non-compliance with this Agreement, KBL will be entitled to specific performance and injunctive and/or other equitable relief as a remedy in addition to and not in lieu of any appropriate relief in the way of monetary damages.

- 3.2 Information on products covered under KBL Brokerage Services and applicable risk disclosures are set out in Schedule 1 to this Agreement. Please read this information carefully.

4 YOUR CLASSIFICATION

- 4.1 For the purposes of the FCA rules, and based on the information available to us, KBL shall treat you as a Professional Client or an Eligible Counterparty (each as separately advised) for the purpose of FCA rules and have assumed for any business that you undertake with KBL, that you have the expertise and knowledge of those products and are also aware of the associated risks involved. You have the right to request a different client categorisation. If you have been categorised as an Eligible Counterparty, KBL will not be required by regulatory rules to provide certain protections granted to Professional Clients. If you request to be categorised as a Retail Client thereby requiring a higher level of regulatory protection, KBL will not be able to provide Brokerage Services to you. You agree and acknowledge that you are responsible for keeping KBL informed about any change that could affect your categorisation as a Professional Client or Eligible Counterparty.

5 ADVICE

- 5.1 We deal on an execution only basis and will not provide any personal recommendation to you in respect of, nor provide any advice to you on the merits of any transaction in financial products. Accordingly, you should make your own assessment of any transaction that you are considering and should not rely on any information, proposal or other communication from us as being a personal recommendation or advice in relation to that transaction.
- 5.2 We will have no obligation with respect to the suitability of a transaction for you. Any generic information, market commentary, trading recommendations (whether oral or written) that may be given by us shall be incidental to the provision of Brokerage Services and be given without representation, warranty or guarantee as to the accuracy or completeness of such information.

6 INVESTMENT OBJECTIVES, RESTRICTIONS AND DECISIONS

- 6.1 Unless otherwise advised in writing, you confirm that your objectives are based upon either:
- (a) hedging current exposures;
 - (b) maximising income; or
 - (c) long term capital growth.
- 6.2 Unless otherwise advised in writing, KBL shall assume that there are no restrictions to the type of transactions that KBL may enter into with you or the markets upon which transactions may be effected.

7 AUTHORITY AND INSTRUCTIONS

- 7.1 You may communicate your dealing instructions to KBL verbally or electronically. If you give KBL instructions, such instructions must be received by KBL during normal business hours allowing sufficient time for KBL to act upon them. You agree that acceptance of an instruction to withdraw or amend an existing instruction is always subject to our receiving and confirming such instruction in time for the appropriate action to be taken. You agree that KBL may in its absolute discretion, refuse to accept an order or any other instruction.
- 7.2 KBL may act upon any instruction which it reasonably believes to have been given by an authorised representative of you. No liability shall attach to KBL if an instruction which it has accepted and acted upon as bona fide is subsequently discovered to have been forged, falsified or amended without your authority.
- 7.3 When KBL accepts a dealing instruction from you, KBL will seek to action it as soon as reasonably practicable in the circumstances. Where you place a client limit order with KBL in shares which are admitted to trading on a regulated market or traded on a trading venue and that order is not immediately executed under prevailing market conditions, KBL shall take measures to facilitate the earliest possible execution of that order by making public immediately that order in a manner which is easily accessible to other market participants unless you expressly instruct KBL otherwise. Such instruction may be upon provision of the relevant dealing instruction or alternatively communicated in advance as applicable to certain or all such dealing instructions.
- 7.4 In accepting your orders KBL does not represent or warrant that it will be possible to execute such order or that execution will be possible according to your instructions. KBL shall carry out an order on your behalf only when the relevant market is open for dealings, and KBL shall deal with any instructions received outside market hours as soon as possible when that relevant market is next open for business (in accordance with the rules of that market).
- 7.5 You confirm that, where provided, you have read and agree to our order execution policy. This policy may be updated from time to time and is available on our website. KBL will consider the continued placement of orders by you to constitute your continued consent to our order execution policy.
- 7.6 KBL may aggregate your order with our own account orders and orders of other clients. You hereby understand and accept that by combining your orders with those of other clients KBL must reasonably believe that this is in the overall best interests of our clients. However, aggregation may result in you obtaining a less favourable price in relation to a particular order.

8 OUR CHARGES

- 8.1 KBL charges a brokerage fee for its Brokerage Services (the "Fee"). Fees will be levied in accordance with our rates in effect at the time the Fees are incurred and may be incorporated as a spread within the execution price. Any alteration to these Fees will be notified to you at or before the time of the change.

In the case of an electronic notification or confirmation, you will be deemed to have received a trade confirmation, or other notification, from KBL upon receipt from the relevant confirmation system and in any case not more than 24 hours from the time of despatch.
- 9.2 You will notify KBL as soon as practicable, but no later than 24 hours after receipt of such notice as set out in clause 9.1, if you are not in agreement with any trade confirmation or other notification from KBL provided that if the day following the day of receipt of such notice is not a trading day, you will notify KBL on the next trading day. In the absence of such notification by you, the trade confirmation or notification will be binding on you.

Schedule 1

RISK DISCLOSURE STATEMENTS

This notice summarizes the nature of, and principal risks associated with financial products which KBL may provide as part of its Brokerage Services under this Agreement. These disclosures cannot disclose all risks inherent in the financial instruments. You should not deal in these products unless you fully understand the nature and extent of your exposure to risk. You should also be satisfied that the product is suitable and appropriate for you in light of your circumstances and financial position.

INVESTMENT RISKS

Market Risk: is the risk that the value of a portfolio will decrease due to the change in value of the market factors such as stock prices, interest rates, exchange rates and commodity prices. In case of a negative fluctuation in prices, investors in financial instruments run the risk of losing part or all of their invested capital.

Systemic Risk: is the risk of collapse of the entire market or the entire financial system. It refers to the risks imposed by interdependencies in a system or market, where the failure of a single entity or cluster of entities can cause a cascading failure, which could potentially bring down the entire system or market.

Credit Risk: is the risk of a borrower's failure to repay a loan or otherwise meet a contractual obligation (i.e. failure to pay interest to bond holders). Credit risk is closely tied to the potential return of an investment, the most notable being that the yields on bonds correlate strongly to their perceived credit risk.

Settlement Risk: is the risk that a counterparty does not deliver a security or its value in cash per agreement when the security was traded after the other counterparty or counterparties have already delivered security or cash value per the trade agreement. This risk is limited where the investment involves financial instruments traded in regulated markets because of the regulation of such markets. This risk increases in case the investment involves financial instruments traded outside regulated markets or where their settlement takes place in different time zones or different clearing systems.

Liquidity Risk: is the risk stemming from the lack of marketability of an investment that cannot be bought or sold quickly enough to prevent or minimize a loss. Liquidity risk becomes particularly important to investors who are about to hold or currently hold an asset, since it affects their ability to trade.

Operational Risk: is the risk of business operations failing due to human error. Operational risk will change from industry to industry, and is an important consideration to make when looking at potential investment decisions. Industries with lower human interaction are likely to have lower operational risk.

Political Risk: is the risk that an investment's returns could suffer as a result of political changes or instability in a country. Instability affecting investment returns could stem from a change in government, legislative bodies, other foreign policy makers, or military control.

FUTURES AND OPTIONS

Futures and Forwards: Transactions in futures and forwards involve the obligation to make or take delivery of the underlying asset of the contract at a future date. These carry a higher degree of risk than their equivalents traded on a spot basis. Futures markets are characterized by the ability to use high leverage or "gearing" meaning that a relatively small fluctuation in the price of the underlying asset may lead to a disproportionately larger fluctuation (favourable or unfavourable) in the price of the future or forward.

Options: Options are financial derivatives that offer the buyer the right, but not the obligation, to buy (call) or sell (put) a security or other financial instrument at an agreed price (strike price) during a certain period of time or on a specific date (exercise date).

Buying options: Buying options involves less risk than selling options because if the price of the underlying asset moves against you, you can simply allow the option to expire. The maximum loss is limited to the premium plus any commission or other transaction charges.

Selling (writing) options: If you sell (or write) an option, the risks involved are considerably greater than buying options as the loss sustained may be multiples of the premium received. Writing options entail a legal obligation to buy or sell the underlying asset if the option is exercised irrespective of how far the market may have moved away from the exercise price. If you already own the underlying asset which you are contracted to sell then the risk is reduced. If you don't already own the underlying asset then the downside risk is potentially unlimited.

OTC DERIVATIVES

Whilst some OTC derivatives markets are highly liquid, transactions involving OTC derivatives may involve higher risk than exchange traded derivatives due to a relative lack of liquidity given there is no ready market on which to close out a position. It may be difficult to liquidate or price an existing position arising from an OTC derivative transaction or to assess exposure to risk. Bid and ask prices in these products may not be readily quoted and where they are, it may be difficult to establish a fair price.

Unlike exchange traded derivatives which may provide clearing house "guarantee", OTC derivative products bear counterparty risk given the fact that a bank, broker or other counterparty may fail to meet its obligations under the terms of the OTC derivative contract due to an event of default.

DIGITAL CURRENCY DERIVATIVES

Digital currencies do not have legal tender status and are not generally backed or supported by governments or central banks. Their value is totally based on perceived value and subject to changes in market sentiment, so are highly volatile compared to traditional currencies.

The legal status of digital currencies (and trading in them) may vary from jurisdiction to jurisdiction, meaning that their characterization as property, an asset or a right of any kind may vary from one jurisdiction to another.

The regulatory status of digital currencies may also vary from jurisdiction to jurisdiction, meaning that trading privileges and/or our provision of Services may be restricted, terminated or otherwise affected due to regulatory action.

In addition, markets and exchanges for trading digital currency derivatives are relatively new and are not regulated with the same controls and customer protections available in equity, futures and options, or foreign exchange investing. Some exchanges are entirely unregulated, and as such are not governed by any specific regulatory framework (such as MiFID).

CASH EQUITIES

Cash equities represent ownership in the share capital of a company. Investors are exposed to all major investment risks outlined above and in particular to market risk. It must be emphasized that there are no guarantees when it comes to individual stocks. Some companies pay out dividends, but many others do not. Without dividends, an investor can make profit on a stock only through its price appreciation in the open market. On the downside, in case of the company's insolvency, the investor may lose the entire value of his investment.

CASH BONDS

All debt instruments are potentially exposed to the market risk types, in particular credit risk and interest rate risk. Debt securities may be subject to the risk of the issuer's inability to meet principal and/or interest payments on the obligation and may also be subject to price volatility due to such factors as interest rate sensitivity, market perception of the creditworthiness of the issuer, general market liquidity, and other economic factors, amongst other issues. When interest rates rise, the value of corporate debt securities can be expected to decline. Fixed-rate transferable debt securities with longer maturities/lower coupons tend to be more sensitive to interest rate movements than those with shorter maturities/higher coupons.

STRUCTURED PRODUCTS

These products are designed to provide you with an agreed level of income or growth over a specified investment period. The return of the capital you initially invested may be linked to the performance of an index, a "basket" of selected stocks or other factors. If the product has performed within specified limits, you will be repaid the capital you initially invested but if not, you could lose some or all of your initial capital. Investing in these products can put the capital you initially invested at risk. These products are not 100% protected.

The range of products may include those where the return is linked to an index or indices, a basket of securities or other specified factors which relate to one or more of the following: equity or debt securities, interest rates, currency exchange rates or commodities. Some of the products include an element of principal protection, at a level which is stated at the time of the initial investment, so that on maturity of the investment you are assured of the return, at a minimum, of the stated proportion of your initial capital invested (subject always to the credit of the issuer of the product). In respect of some products which include an element of principal protection, the return of the stated proportion of your initial capital invested may depend on a pre-agreed level of performance being achieved or the product being held to maturity. If the performance is not attained or the product is not held to maturity the element of principal protection will not apply. Different products involve different levels of exposure to risk (and reward) and in deciding whether to trade in such products you should be aware of the following points:

- a) There is no guarantee that all of the initial capital invested by you will be returned to you on maturity of the investment. You may therefore get back a lesser amount than you originally invested.
- (b) These investments may involve a degree of gearing or leverage, so that a relatively small movement in the relevant index/indices, basket or other specified factor(s) results in a disproportionately large movement, unfavourable or favourable, in the amount paid out to you on maturity of the investment.
- (c) Investments linked to the performance of an index do not include an allowance for any return or reinvestment of dividend income from the underlying constituents of the index.
- (d) If you decide to redeem or sell the investment before its stated maturity, you may not gain the maximum benefit of the investment and may receive a poor return or less than the initial capital invested. Early redemption penalties may be applicable in some circumstances.
- (e) The initial capital you invest may be placed into high risk investments such as non-investment grade bonds/instruments linked to commodities or indices on commodities.
- (f) The stated rate of growth or income in relation to an investment may depend on specified conditions being met, including the performance of the relevant index/indices, basket of selected stocks or other specified factor(s).
- (g) You should not deal in these investments unless you are prepared to sustain a loss of the money you have invested (a loss which may be total or may be partial as specified in the relevant terms and conditions) plus any commission or other transaction charges.

STOCK LENDING AND REPO (REPURCHASE) AGREEMENTS

The term "repo" refers to a sale and repurchase transaction. The effect of lending securities to a third party is to transfer title to them to the borrower (or repo purchaser) for the period that they are lent. At the end of the period, subject to default of the borrower (or repo purchaser), the lender (or repo seller) receives back securities of the same issuer and type. The borrower's (or repo purchaser's) obligation to transfer equivalent securities is secured against collateral (which is usually transferred by a title transfer mechanism pursuant to market standard agreements). There is, accordingly, credit risk. Lending securities may affect your tax position. We do not provide tax or legal advice.

As a result of lending securities you will cease to be the owner of them, although you will have the right to reacquire at a future date equivalent securities (or in certain circumstances their cash value or the proceeds of redemption). However, except to the extent that you have received collateral, your right to the return of securities is subject to the risk of insolvency or other non-performance by the borrower. Since you are not the owner during the period securities are lent out, you will not have voting rights nor will you directly receive dividends or other corporate actions although you will normally be entitled to a payment from the borrower equivalent to the dividend you would otherwise have received and the borrower will be required to account for you for the benefit of corporate actions. Full details will be contained in any stock lending agreement you enter into and the above description is subject to the terms of any such document.
